“ I knew Dan from my time working at his local watering hole in Alexandria, during the mid to late 90s.

Although I don't have any specific memories to mention, in general, he was always in a jovial mood after his work day and I found him to be a courteous & engaging character with a sharp sense of humour who I personally was always happy to see when he visited; which wasn't always the case with some regular customers (Dan would know who I'm talking about!!!).

A lasting memory, however, would be the multiple salutations from customers & staff alike of "McDan" on his arrival.

Just an all around good guy.

May he rest in peace.
