“ Kyla is.... More than anything in this world- a treasure. I can't describe how much I love and cherish her because she's really been the glue that's been holding me together but more importantly, she taught me how to make that glue myself and I think that she was the most vibrant thing in my life. And I don't think that any color is ever gonna be as bright as she was. She she struggled a lot, but she always managed to smile. She always managed to smile and sing and laugh throughout anything she went through and although I know for a fact that I cannot handle being here , I know that she will always be with me. So I plan on doing well in this life so that I can take her to the places that she didn't have a chance to go and see the things that she didn't have the chance to see because we were supposed to go together in the first place. But even though her body isn't here, I think her spirit is always gonna be with me and she's gonna be my favorite travel partner. She's gonna be with me when I paint, she's gonna be with me when I cook, she's gonna be with me when I dance, she's going to be with me when I'm with my family, she's gonna be with me when I cry and she's going to be with me when things are hard just said she was before. She's just not physically here anymore but her spirit is too bright and vibrant to just go out after her physical body being gone. And she told me for a fact that she was going to haunt me lol. I do think that there's no kind of relationship that I can hold a candle to that was like me and Kyla's and that's OK. She's just bringing that light and vibrancy, that intensely loud cackle and her beautiful Beautiful, soulful, singing voice to heaven- I mean that's where those things came from in the first place. She did everything that she could to make sure that I could keep going on and even though it was out of my control I would've done the same. she saved my life and she made me realize that I only have one, and that that one life has worth living, and that people need me , so I plan on taking care of it and giving it the best that I could ever give it instead of giving up. I love her and I'm never gonna stop loving her and I'm never going to forget the sound of her voice and I'm never going to forget her smile , I'm never gonna forget her astrology readings us texting in all caps for 30 minutes at a time or any of the corny memes that she sent me.

She was my shining star, my guardian angel, my best friend. She was Kyla.

“ Kyla and my daughter Mikayla have a friendship that has been a saving grace. Even when we moved to NC they kept in touch and I would hear them laughing and talking on the phone into the late night hours. Kyla was a blessing for our family and the last time we spoke she was respectful, caring and concerned about Mikayla’s well being. She calmly but directly helped me through a very difficult situation and demonstrated wisdom far beyond her young age. May she rest in peace. She will be terribly missed. Bless her soul! May God surround her family in love.
