His hobbies included gem-mining and collecting, genealogy and cheering on (or yelling at) the “Washington Football Team.” Randy especially enjoyed spending time with his family at the Outer Banks of North Carolina, where he and his wife had a vacation home.

“ This is coming late -- but I recently re-discovered my Army records, and I wanted to reach out to Randy. I am very sad to read he has passed. He was the commanding officer of my company at the 7th RRFS Ramasun Station in Thailand in 1973-74. Captain Seamans was a fine officer and a kind, gentle man. I was a young enlisted specialist at the time, and he helped me through some rough moments. He also introduced me to my wife Diane, one of the first female specialists assigned to the 7th RRFS. She joins me now 50 years later with appreciation and love for our memories of Randy. Best wishes to his family and friends. He was among the Army's finest. -- John Chickering, Rockford, Michigan -- May, 2023

“ Allan and I haven't known Randy but a short time of his busy life, but we are happy to have known he and his family. So thankful they chose their vacation home on the OBX do we may have never gotten to know them. I'd like to thank him for his service over the years. I'd also like to say what a huge fight he has had these past few years. He certainly met the challenge. Now he has found his peace with our Heavenly Father. Rest well Randy, you will be missed.
