

Tyler David Mulligan

September 14, 2022

Tyler David Mulligan, son of CJ and Michelle, and brother to Kaelyn and Gwynn, passed away at 5:38 am 14 September 2022.

Born in the big pink military hospital on the hill in Oahu, Hawaii on August 2, 2006, Tyler lived in Hawaii, Florida, Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma before settling in Virginia in 2016. Strong, brave, true, funny, and serious, Tyler was the best brother, the finest son, a true artist, and a champion of those unable to champion themselves.

He is survived, and missed, by his family, who looks forward to his greeting when they are called home in God's timing.

The family will remember Tyler in a private memorial on Sunday 25 September and at similarly private funeral services on Monday 26 September. Both memorial and service will be non-traditional and dedicated to honoring Tyler as he was not as anyone would or would not want him to be; the family is asking if you have a purple hoodie and black sweatpants to wear them; these were Tyler's favorite, sometimes only, clothing choices.

Flowers can be ordered and sent via Miller Funeral Home and Crematory Woodbridge, VA website; Tyler's favorite color was purple, but he wasn't the biggest fan of flowers. If you prefer, donations can be sent to NAMI or, locally, to the Virginia Art Factory, a place Tyler loved and expressed himself artistically time and again.

“ In Loving Memory of a loving brother, a caring friend, and a most selfless human being:

Once in an eternity, a star is born, in a lifetime it gives us its light... Once in an eternity comes the light that in a lifetime illuminates and warmth the soul of mankind... Once in an eternity a life is lived as in a lifetime its contributes to the safety and betterment of the human heart... Once in an eternity this life share in its lifetime that which enriches the souls and lift up the spirits of the desolates and poor in spirit and mind... Once in eternity the star finds the darkest places of life to brighten them in a lifetime with the soft and gentle light of kindness, protection, and selfless love... once in an eternity like such a star Tyler David Mulligan was born to clothes in a lifetime with hope, mercy, kindness, and joy the fragile soul, body, and spirit of all that is fragile, needy, and alive as it reaches out to the star that in a lifetime illuminates all that has breath, meaning, and capacity to nourish and enrich the lifetime of all that shelters itself under the soft and warmth light of an eternal star.

An angelic star who once in eternity brightened and warmed in a lifetime a countless number of needy souls, downcast spirits, and fragile human beings and animals, I thanks you Tyler for your gentle spirit, kind full soul, and sacrificial and selfless human heart! You definitely were a light and salt of the world—one who eternally fleshed out in a lifetime Proverbs 31:8-9 and Matthew 5:13-16, 48. Your legacy and contributions enhanced the lives of many and greatly contributed to a better earthly world. Yes, thank you so much Tyler for your exemplary life, impactful kindness, and selfless sacrifices on behalf of others—thank you for being a keeper of your brother, a friend to the desolates, and kind full to the needy. Until we meet again my brother and caring friend on the other side of eternity! (1 Peter 1:3-9).

Abundant grace, mercy, compassion, and peace,

“ Tyler was never afraid to tell me I was totally wrong about something. I could be complaining about someone and in the middle of yelling about it, and he never failed to force me to step back, and then he would tell me that I was saying something wrong and that's not where my mindset should have been because somehow he always knew better than I did about that stuff. I've never heard him gossip about anyone, or sit by while anyone else did either. Which is more than most of us can say. He was a smart kind and completely unique person and the world seems a lot dimmer with him not in it.
